Well, that is really old and quite outdated. The 2008 SAP did not support using those data in our risk assessment.

Hi Anna

Quick question that I am hoping you can update me – regarding the following. I am putting together a summary of current/past EJ related work withing OPP and am also highlighting areas where new information related to EJ was factored into risk management decisions. I am very not familiar with this effort and where we landed on it. It was part of a summary from HED. Can you let me know where it currently stands in our assessment? thanks

When reliable data are available, HED has conducted risk assessments or screened potential exposure scenarios to address possible risks that would not be addressed using conventional methods. Following are a few specific examples that were discussed in the HED EJ Training:
